FLY INFESTATIONS
AND THEIR IMPACT ON BUSINESSES

Houseflies breed and multiply anywhere they have access to waste products. Business premises offer up many environments and locations with an abundance of water, food and warmth that fly larvae need to thrive.

How are you managing your business' fly control?

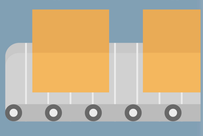

45% of businesses which have suffered fly infestations in the past five years report a high or moderate concern about loss of income.

Flies are most likely insects to cause damage and disruption to a food service or food production business.

Businesses spend a global average of $9000 a year dealing with flies.

Flies cause worry over compensation claims, with 64% of companies citing this as a concern.

Discover the new wave of innovation in fly control, find out how the latest LED technology can protect your business today.

For more information visit:
www.rentokil.com/lumnia

Rentokil